

Northern Frontiers Services Property Agreement Coaching 2024 Brochure

Phone, Videochat or Face-to-Face

Recently separated and can't agree on who gets what?

Does the thought of a lengthy court battle give you nightmares?

There is a better way.

Property Agreement Coaching - How it Works:

Northern Frontiers provides coaching to help you work out how to divide your assets and finalize the financial relationship you have with your ex-partner. Your coach will assist in identifying the combined property pool and exploring options for property division along with actions needed to complete each option. What you end up with is a well-developed Property Proposal that may be presented to the other party for consideration in finalising your financial relationship. If agreement is reached you are advised to seek legal advice around formalising the agreement. Referrals can be provided upon request.

Benefits of Property Agreement Coaching:

- Reduce the need for court action
- Save time and money on legal fees
- > Receive relevant information from a friendly experienced professional in a confidential setting
- Limit ongoing conflict with your ex-partner by presenting a well-considered proposal that includes actions for completion
- > If children are involved, limit disruption to their financial support by resolving issues quickly.

At any stage of the coaching process either party may request mediation, which is basically a mediated assisted discussion for separated parties who cannot reach agreement themselves.

Pricing:

Property Agreement Coaching sessions are charged at $180.00 for a standard 60 minute session. Longer sessions can be arranged. Sessions can be in-person or via phone/video chat.

Important: It is now mandatory for disputing parties to attempt property mediation prior to asking the court to decide matters for them.

Disclaimer:

All Northern Frontiers' coaching and mediation services are directed by the Family Law Act 1975 however we do not provide legal advice.
